An [illegible] Made for C[illegible] Neither Party W[illegible]

NEW YORK, Feb. 6 [illegible] says the Conservatives [illegible] after having [illegible] all day [illegible] at 12:30 this morning the proposition of the congressional committee [illegible] the resolution [illegible] by all the [illegible] of the legislature acknowledging the Kellogg government and indorsing the [illegible] of 1872, on [illegible] obtaining a majority in the lower house by seating the five Conservative contesting members. McEnery, who was invited to be present, made a speech denouncing the arrangement. The measure was carried by the country members, the city delegation being mainly in favor of rejecting the proposition. Great excitement prevails even at this late hour and strong opposition is already developed. The sentiment of the extreme wing of the Democratic party is [illegible] to what they consider a sacrifice of the people to policy, and a difficulty may be [illegible] expected

NEW ORLEANS, Feb 6—In the Conservative caucus last night a debate on the compromise was kept up until after midnight. The proposition under consideration was that the Conservatives should have a majority of about ten in the House, and that the past [illegible] of the Kellogg government should not be inquired into. The vote stood 48 in favor of this compromise, 27 against. After the vote Speaker Wiltz, it is stated, tendered his resignation. Gov McEnery, who was [illegible] by courtesy, said by this action of the caucus it was time to lower the Democratic banner, and he therefore wished to retire

NEW ORLEANS, Feb 6—The Bulletin says the action of the Conservative caucus last night, on the compromise, was subsequently rescinded. The Conservative caucus to-night is considering the proposition of [illegible] submitted by the congressional committee, which is that the Conservatives claiming to have been elected to House Representatives and whose certificates are illegally withheld by the returning board agree to submit their claims to seats to the award and arbitrament of the members of the congressional committee now in New Orleans, and to abide by such award, and those who under such award become members of the House severally agree to [illegible] by their influence [illegible] by this compromise. The parties claiming [illegible] Senators from the 5th and 22d districts also agree to abide by [illegible] award. Conservative members holding certificates from the returning board also agree when such award of the committee is [illegible] the committee on [illegible] of the body [illegible] at the State house and claiming to be the House of Representatives, they will attend a sitting of said body for the purpose of adopting said [illegible], and if it is adopted and the [illegible] they will also support a resolution which is as follows

WHEREAS, Doubts have existed and still exist as to the legal [illegible] of the election in this State in [illegible] and

WHEREAS, It is alleged by a large portion of the people of this State and believed that the result of the election for members of the House of Representatives and for treasurer in November last was illegally determined and promulgated by the returning board, and

WHEREAS, Their doubts and allegations and belief have [illegible] to disturb the public mind and unsettle confidence, and is so injurious as to affect the material interests of State, and

WHEREAS, It is deemed necessary to the welfare of the State that an adjustment of the foregoing difficulty should be effected, therefore

Be it hereby resolved by the general assembly of the State of Louisiana, That said assembly, without approving of the same, will not disturb the present State government claiming to have been elected in 1872 and known as the Kellogg government, nor seek to impeach the Governor for any past official act, and that henceforth will accord said Governor [illegible] and legitimate support in maintaining [illegible] the peace and prosperity of the people of this State, and that the House of Representatives, as to its members as constituted under the award of the congressional committee, shall remain [illegible] change except by the resignation or [illegible] members, until a new general election [illegible] that the Senate herein recognized shall remain unchanged except so far as that body may itself [illegible] changes on contest.

This proposition was discussed in caucus, but no [illegible] action taken by Conservatives

[illegible] state that the members of the Kellogg house will accept no compromise

A [illegible] introduced yesterday into the Kellogg house inviting absent members to return and [illegible] co-operation in all constitutional measures [illegible] produced considerable disorder and finally resulted in no quorum. A renewal of the subject of compromise occasioned the greatest disorder, such as has not before prevailed since January 4th.

A mass meeting of Conservatives was held to [illegible] against the proposed compromise [illegible] was slimly attended. Speeches were made by H Ogden, McEnery and Wiltz

NEW ORLEANS, Feb 7—The compromise is the general topic of conversation to-day among politicians [illegible] men. The indications are the [illegible] vote in the Conservative caucus will be very close, members apparently being about equal for and against a compromise. It is understood not a member present of the Kellogg legislature will yield, consequently the proposed adjustment is generally regarded as impracticable. Gen Sheridan returned to-day. It is understood the Congressional committee are unanimous in the opinion that the action of the returning board was illegal and that the Conservatives elected a majority of the members of the [illegible] legislature at the late election. The Congressional committee will conclude the investigation to-morrow and leave at once for Washington

The minority report signed by Mr Ward of Illinois was also presented. He favored the restoration of Brooks and the overthrow of the constitutional State government

The Hennepin canal bill was then taken up

WASHINGTON, Feb 6—In the debate on the Hennepin canal bill McCrary, Cotton and Wilson of Iowa favored the passage of the appropriation, and Burchard, Holman and Dawes opposed it. Holman thought it the initial job of the session, the pioneer measure which would in the end take a hundred millions from the government, and if the scheme stood by itself it would receive little support

Burchard believed the construction of the canal by the proposed routes would cost from $30,000,000 to $35,000,000, and in view of the condition of the Treasury he was opposed to the bill in any shape, even although his own district might be benefitted by it

The city is to accept permission upon the express condition that no claim for damages for improvements, etc, shall be made if at any time revoked. This will secure the passage of the bill if it can be reached, but under the new rules of the Senate calling committees day by day no bill on the calendar can be considered out of its order except by unanimous consent.

Report of Committee on Arkansas Affairs.

WASHINGTON, Feb 6—The report of the select committee on Arkansas affairs presented by Poland to-day says: "The new constitution we regard as republican in form and in many respects an improvement on that of '68. The committee are satisfied the convention to frame the constitution and the constitution were voted for and are satisfactory to a majority of the people of the State; that the State officers were certainly elected by a majority of votes cast, and the committee think by a majority of the votes in the State. The State has been as peaceful since the new government was inaugurated as it has ever been, and the mass of the people on both sides are inclined to peace and good government and to allow to all their legal rights, but there is a class of young men, the outgrowth of former society, who delight in disturbing and depraving the colored people and Northern people, and this class is difficult to restrain. The change is caused by giving freedom and political equality to the colored people, which is not relished by the Southern people, but most of them would do nothing to disturb them. But the class to which we have alluded feel that they may invade the rights of the colored men, especially in any political quarrel, and that their offenses will be winked at. We are satisfied the true prosperity of the Southern States depends more upon just and stern dealing by them with this lawless class of men than any other cause. Arkansas probably presents no different condition from that of other cotton States, where political control has passed into the hands of a class who ruled before the war. The committee do not recommend any action by Congress or by any department of the general government in regard to the government of Arkansas. The report is signed by Messrs Poland, Sener, Taylor and Gloss. The other member of the committee, Mr Ward, dissents from the majority report and presents resolutions setting forth the election of Brooks as Governor under the constitution of 1868, which constitution was never legally overturned or abolished, and that he is the lawful governor of Arkansas

The Vice President laid before the Senate the calendar and several bills relating to the District of Columbia were passed

Mr Sargent moved that the rest of the day be assigned for the consideration of bills on the calendar, and at close of the session Schurz's Louisiana resolution be taken up in order that it might be the unfinished business on Monday, when he thought he would be able to address the Senate

No one could tell where he had gone till a telegram was received in Olympia by Gen Milroy from Mr Sloan. The latter gentleman telegraphed from Tacoma that he was all right. Mr W T Campbell went down the sound on Sunday evening to induce Mr Sloan to return. They returned to Olympia on Tuesday of last week

The Walla Walla Statesman says: Our friend Sam Johnson, living just across the Oregon line, informs us that the stock in his neighborhood have stood the cold snap splendidly. A few old cows and some young calves have perished, but outside of these the loss has been inconsiderable. On the Touchet we learn from Mr C Davis that very few animals have died, and that generally the stock looks well. Mr John Mann, of the lower Touchet, informs us that in his neighborhood and over on Snake river there have been no deaths. In his locality the grazing was good and stock owners do not apprehend any loss. From all the outside localities the reports are favorable, and the chances now are that a majority of the stock owners will get their bands through without any material loss

On the 28th of January, in Seattle, by the breaking of a chain on the wharf, a loaded coal car, a heavy apron and two men were all precipitated together down some 20 feet to the deck of the ship Onward, which was taking on a cargo of coal. The names of the two men were Cunningham and Nicholson. Cunningham fell on one side of the car, receiving a severe contusion on the head and having his leg broken either by the car or one end of the apron, in two places above and below the knee, while Nicholson fell on the opposite side and was caught under the car, when it turned over and horribly crushed about the head and body, and would have been instantly killed had not his body been protected to some extent by large pieces of coal upon which the car rested while he was under it. Both may recover

OREGON

[illegible] OF [illegible]

[By Mr Wm [illegible], late U S Vice Consul at Dundee, copied from Dundee Advertiser, Scotland, of 9th Dec 1874]

The climate of Oregon is very mild and agreeable, having neither extremes of heat or cold. It is five months to-day since we arrived here, during which we have had entirely summer weather, much more pleasant and enjoyable than the summer in Scotland. Rain has fallen on twenty five days during these five months, not consecutively nor for a day, but lasting on an average two hours at a time. What agreeably surprises us in summer are the soft afternoon breezes which blow every day, and the cool evenings and mornings. From 11 A M to 3, and sometimes 4 P M, the heat will go up from 60 to 82 in the shade with clear blue skies. Only one day all summer did I feel it oppressive between these hours. There have been no winds as yet, and I am told that in winter even strong winds are rare. Hot winds, as in Australia, are unknown, and thunder and lightning are rare. Only once have we witnessed a thunder storm, which lasted an hour—a small affair compared to those in Scotland. Yet the newspapers next day told us the like of it had not been witnessed in Oregon for fifteen years. So far as our five months' experience goes we say unhesitatingly that no better summer climate can be than in Oregon. But as winter has not made its appearance, nor given us yet any warnings of its approach, although this is 20th October, I cannot tell you what it is like. Only a relation of mine, a Scotchman, who spent last winter in Oregon, tells me that there was no difference between the rainy season here and the winters in Scotland except that the spring came earlier here, and was much milder, with no east winds. Frost and snow came occasionally, but never lasted longer than a day or two at a time. So far as health goes, I and my family have been all very much healthier than in Scotland

FARMING IN THE WALLAMET VALLEY

Here is the paradise of the agriculturist. No experienced farmer could desire such a combination of advantages as he will find in this valley. Farming is no speculation; failure of crops is unknown. "As ye sow, so shall ye reap" here. Soil is prolific in the extreme without manure; the land is flat and easily ploughed; pastures nearly always green, therefore suited for dairying. The yield with good cultivation is large—30 to 35 bushels per acre—which, however, through poor farming, is not the average of the State. Such lands (improved farms) can be obtained (bought) from £3 to £6 an acre with houses, barns, &c, included, all in wood, with fine scenery all around. Grain, especially wheat, is beautiful, plump and large, and the yield of vegetables and fruits is something unparalleled. It is painful to ride along a country road and see the orchards going to waste, the trees overbearing themselves with prolificness, and nobody to eat or make use of the fruit. I am satisfied that Western Oregon owes her extreme prolificness and certainty of crop more to the evenness of her climate, summer and winter, and to the annual rains than to the soil itself. Butter, milk and cheese command equally as high prices as at home. Wheat sells at 3s to 4s per bushel at Portland; the cost of raising it being (including labor, rent, and interest on money) 2s a bushel, exclusive of freight. Sheep farming is profitable; the average price obtained for wool this year was 1s 3d per lb; the cost of "growing wool," as it is technically called, is 6½d per lb. But as very large flocks are unknown, and there are no farms here with 5,000 to 8,000 acres in wheat alone, as in California, a splendid opening is now open for some of our practical agriculturists of Scotland with steam ploughs and modern farm machinery to make money in the Wallamet valley. The way farming is conducted here, compared to the "old country," is amusing. The first thing which strikes an experienced farmer from Great Britain is the very poor manner in which the soil is cultivated. This reminds me of a Scotch New Zealand farmer all the way from the colonies who this summer, on observing the bad cultivation of Oregon fields, said to me: "Weel, a weel, I hae some chance here whaur I had nane in Otago. We've had to fight wi' each other there, as we was all guid farmers, rubbing against the other and seeing by thick competition it taks us all our time to get a leevin' in New Zealand, we've prospects o' rubbin' out o' the world the puir ploughing they hae here and makin money when they canna [illegible] us." This remark struck me as very true indeed. If a Scotch farmer applies himself to the soil here as he does to his well manured Scotch farm he will make more money by farming here than in any other part of the world. All that is wanted here is industrious, persevering men from Europe who will work with a will, and such men with a little capital—say £300 to £1,000—on their arrival here will very readily in four to five years pay back the price of any improved farm they may purchase in Western Oregon. Let me, however, correct one serious mistake which all travelers and newspaper correspondents have fallen into—namely, stating that good farm lands can be had in the Wallamet valley at 10s per acre. This mistake has arisen from seeing only one sixth of the agricultural lands of the valley in actual cultivation and observing the virgin prairie in many places untilled, but, although many of the early settlers who got from 1850 to 1860 as a gift from the United States Government, a mile square of prairie land, are still here, they do not cultivate one-fourth of their farms, and some, instead of being disposed to sell a part of what they do not cultivate, rather prefer to purchase (if they can get it) their neighbors' lands whenever such a chance is open. As a rule Oregon farmers are well to do people, and a few of them are wealthy; all seem contented and happy, except at wheat selling times, when there is the farmers' old story—grumbling at not getting better prices. Of course interior and timbered lands (of which latter there is a large portion in the valley) can be had at 15s to 20s an acre, but except these are around villages I would not recommend Scotch settlers to purchase them. It will pay a man far better to purchase with a portion in cash and on time a good improved farm, fenced, and buildings, than to go back upon the vast tracts of Government land in Eastern, Southern and Southeastern Oregon, which can be got at 5s an acre. These will, however, in course of time, be rapidly occupied, and railways will eventually pass through them; and as there are still three fourths of Eastern Oregon and Washington belonging to the Government which could sustain 20,000,000 of people, now occupied by 100,000 to 110,000, you can imagine what a wide field there is on the North Pacific coast for over populated Europe to possess, having a climate, soil, scenery and products superior to any portion of the American continent, where a man can select 160 acres and retain it as a gift from the United States, given him in return for actual settlement only. The Wallamet valley contains (including the small towns and Portland) four fifth of the population of Oregon, or 80,000 people. The farming class proper with their families number 40,000, who have produced this year in Western Oregon—

000,000 bushels	wheat	400,000 bush	apples
100,000 bush	Indian corn	300,000	pears
[illegible]	rye	20,000	other fruits
100,000	oats	120,000 ton	hay
[illegible],000	barley	1,000,000 lbs	wool
3,000	buckwheat	40,000	hides
40,000	flax	1,400,000 lbs	[illegible] produce
500,000	potatoes	340,000 barrels	of flour
50,000	onions

Not a bad showing for such a small population, and yet only one sixth of the Wallamet valley is cultivated. That valley is considered the agricultural portion of the State. Southern, Southeastern and Eastern Oregon are now used as stock and sheep ranges, unlimited in extent, which may now and will be occupied rent free for many years to come

VALLEYS IN OREGON AND WASHINGTON TERRITORY SUITED FOR AGRICULTURE

One can scarcely imagine the numerous little valleys suited for agriculture scattered all over the North Pacific coast which I have not mentioned (in area four to five times the valleys of Western Oregon), over and beyond the sheep farming lands proper. *Including City

It must be remembered that these are all prairie valleys nearly destitute of timber, having at all events on an average not as much timber as will be requisite for use. Puget Sound is not included in the above estimate

TIMBER.

It is surprising to see the immense quantity of beautiful timber—the tall trees, as straight as an arrow, shooting two to three hundred feet above, free of limbs, for nearly 100 feet. Nothing so pleases the various sea captains as the quality of the cedar and fir, free as they are from knots and other imperfections. One Dundee shipmaster told me the other day there was nothing like it in Canada. The timber trade is pretty large, but it is at present confined to Sydney, Melbourne and the Australian colonies, China, Japan and the Pacific Islands. There are some fifteen sailing ships engaged in that trade, having their headquarters in Oregon and Washington. Of course San Francisco is the nearest as it is the largest market at present. From that city it is shipped to various cities in the South Pacific ocean. There are some thirty to thirty five coasting schooners in the San Francisco lumber trade. At no distant day this Oregon timber trade is to advance to such an extent that it will rival the present wheat trade of Oregon. For ship building it is unsurpassed, and on the Sound and the coast of Oregon there are now building some thirteen to fifteen vessels, two of which are 1,400 to 1,500 tons [illegible]. Labor at ship-building is high—somewhere about 15s a day; but on the other hand, material is astonishingly cheap. Spars, knees, rosin, tar and everything necessary, excepting sails, are on the spot. What this State needs, and what there are lucrative openings for, are

MANUFACTORIES.

A few gentlemen at Coos Bay the other day amalgamated to build a 1,000 ton ship. After examining the various estimates they contracted to build at £12 per ton, complete. A wooden ship I mean. Near to, or rather at, Portland there is a splendid natural site for a graving dock and shipbuilding yard at Albina, belonging to Edwin Russell, manager of Bank of British Columbia, Portland, near to which are now building a few river steamers. There are so many foreign ships arriving and departing, that a ship building yard for graving and for repairs would pay well. The manufactories in Oregon at present are one smelting iron work, eight miles distant; three iron foundries, about 70 to 80 flour mills, five large woolen mills, a large paper mill, and several tanneries. Two things which will eventually build up Portland are—first, its nearness to a large iron bed, found to be nearly twenty miles long and seven miles broad, and having timber unlimited and coal within a few miles of the Columbia river; and, second, an immense waterpower, upwards of one million horsepower, at Oregon City, a small village twelve miles up the river above Portland. The success of manufactories is fully assured. Determined to have railways (the want of which is a serious drawback to this whole North Pacific coast) and an Atlantic connection, the Legislature of Oregon is going to pass a law allowing all foreign corporations to build railroads in the State with the same powers as citizens, and also giving exemption for taxes for 20 years to all railroads commenced to be built within the next five years. This latter concession is valuable, and already two companies have acquired such rights from the State, and propose to make Atlantic connections. Warned by experience of the way in which one of its railways was built, the State of Oregon is taking great care of its financial reputation, and will pass severe laws for the protection of the interests of foreign bondholders as against the railroad companies in the State. Such a change is much needed, and your correspondent is helping now to get passed such laws, which are necessary for the protection of foreign capital. The State has incorporated the Oregon Central Pacific Railway (330 miles long) under such laws, and has so guarded the interests of bondholders, and given them a voice in the management of the road, and secured its revenues for the bondholders' protection, that it is impossible in future for any defalcations to arise, or controlling or watering of stock and such other practices as have been common in the railroads of the Western States. The legislature in 1872 passed a law entitling foreigners to invest in this State in any undertaking same as citizens

SCENERY.

So much has been written already upon the scenery of this coast that it is no use for me to describe it. I will only say that a sail up the Columbia river, from Portland to Wallula (for Walla Walla), a distance of 350 miles, is something which cannot be sufficiently described. I feel satisfied we have nothing like it in Great Britain. This reminds me of a pleasant reminiscence. Sailing up the Columbia river in July last on one of the handsome river steamers of the Oregon Steam Navigation Company, and while among the Cascade mountains, who do you think I met there? Why Mr A R Gilroy, of Dundee, son of Mr George Gilroy, quietly sitting at one of the wharfs waiting for the steamer. He caught my eye before I saw him, and we both were astonished to meet each other without previous notice among the wild scenery of the "Far West," away from civilization and over 7,000 miles from Dundee. Nothing brings one so near the "old country" as when he suddenly meets an old friend thousands of miles away from home. We came back to Portland together, talked of home and nothing else, and two days thereafter my young friend, Mr A. R. Gilroy, left me to cross the Pacific ocean, and visit China, Japan and India before returning to Bonnie Dundee, which he was to reach in November

KINDNESS OF THE PEOPLE

On our arrival here in May we were gladly welcomed by all classes. Your correspondent did not think he was known in anticipation in the Far West until traveling through the different portions of this country. "Dundee" is a household word in Oregon, I assure you, and if a man says he comes from that city he is welcomed. The Oregonians look upon Dundee as their friend and are proud of what Scotland is doing for Oregon, and expect more Scotchmen will come and rear up and develop its various undertakings. Strange to say that the large business houses here are all British. All along the valley you find Scotch farmers in large numbers, and scarcely a day passes but I meet with many of my countrymen, some of them here since 1850. They all unite in saying that Oregon is the likest place to Scotland in scenery, climate, &c. After my arrival here the various steam navigation companies and the Oregon and California and Northern Pacific railway companies tendered me free passes to visit any portion of the country from British Columbia to Southern Oregon. When we waited on the governor at the executive mansion at the capitol we were there also welcomed, and spent a few hours talking over the subject of immigration with Governor Grover. Oregonians think much of their country, and well they may too, and all that it needs to make it a hive of industry for the Anglo Saxon race is direct railway connection with the Atlantic States, which, when secured, will advance this country more than the Central Pacific Railway did California

INVESTMENTS.

Money commands 10 to 12 per cent at the banks and on real estate securities. So high is the rate of interest that in Washington Territory 15 to 18 per cent is obtained. But this high rate is unquestionably keeping back manufactories. If money could be had freely at 10 per cent the country would progress much more rapidly than it is doing now. Those emigrants who have come and are coming do not bring with them much capital. There are hundreds of opportunities in Oregon for men with a few thousand pounds. Large financial undertakings which would yield 12 to 15 per cent are suspended for want of capital. Any investment made with judicious care cannot fail to prove remunerative if well managed. The crops are heavy and so certain that a farmer need not fail to pay interest on money he borrows at moderate rates, unless he is reckless or a spendthrift. The [illegible] the more he [illegible] the many [illegible] by honest industry and with [illegible] but it is dangerous (except for farming) for a newcomer to invest his [illegible] as the Americans say. He must be [illegible] a few months and acquire some experience before embarking on his own [illegible]. For commerce a wide field is [illegible] advantage of the produce of the country, and export it to various [illegible] of the [illegible] Prospectively no country [illegible] for commerce as Oregon. [illegible] It may be ten to twelve years [illegible] a large com[illegible] is built up, but it is coming for certain some day [illegible] having everything which [illegible] and all that is wanting is [illegible] [illegible] and railroads. [illegible] will have this year 100 British [illegible] ports to carry away the wheat and flour of the State, and last year there were 170 [illegible] steamers (arrivals and departures) in the [illegible] ing trade alone from the Columbia river to San Francisco. This has been the [illegible] of the whole [illegible] and paying tribute to San Francisco [illegible] fourths of the State imports and one third of its exports going into and [illegible] from Oregon through the Golden Gate of San Francisco, and being there reshipped [illegible] to foreign countries.

I am sorry my time will not [illegible] me giving you a longer description of this State.

MONDAY MORNING FEBRUARY 8 1875

THE DIFFERENCE

The ring organ is very much gratified to find that the States Rights Democrat does not agree with the OREGONIAN upon the situation of affairs in Louisiana The Democrat was not expected to coincide with us on this question, by any sane man who ever read both the papers Mr Brown is a consistent modern disciple of Bourbonism, and the staunch advocate of principles which we could never indorse, and though he gets up one of the most readable journals in the State and fills it well with news, his Democracy is entirely too much of the ultra sort to allow him to indorse whatever is done that is not sanctioned by 'the party,' or to condemn anything which the party does Hence he opposes us with a degree of candor in his opposition that the Bulletin editor never brings to the discussion of any question. Were it our policy to publish the notices of commendation which other papers give the OREGONIAN, we would give the article from which the Bulletin garbles the extract it published on Saturday The Democrat very earnestly commends the OREGONIAN for its enterprise, its general appearance, and ranks it first among Oregon newspapers, but cannot agree with us on political questions The Democrat is a Democratic paper of the States Rights school, as its name indicates, and of course its editor don't view political subjects from an unbiased standpoint, and that's the difference which exists between the Democrat and ourselves

WHEAT INJURED

From letters received from different parts of the valley and exchanges from the same section we learn that great fears are entertained that a very large number of fields of wheat has been badly damaged by the late freeze This we are assured is the case of many fields in Linn, Marion, Washington and Clackamas counties with some in Yamhill, Polk, Benton and Lane The counties named constitute the great grain growing regions of the Wallamet Valley and the loss, though hardly calculable will no doubt be very heavy However should the spring be favorable for seeding a large acreage in spring wheat will be the result, and an abundant supply for home consumption with a decreased amount for export will be [illegible] Coming on the heels of a year of very low prices for grain, the loss by the freeze will be a severe one to many of our farmers

The Bulletin, in its late attempt to make a little headway among the grangers, took pretty good care to guard its position In its issue of the 3d it threw out an intimation that wheat was about to advance in the Liverpool market, and that somebody connected with the OREGONIAN wanted to buy up what there is in Oregon, but it adds ' We estimate there is yet for sale in Oregon about three million bushels of wheat" Now the editor of the organ is either an ignoramus on that point, which we don't believe he is, or he publishes even that "estimate to deceive, for no man at all posted in such things estimates the wheat now for sale in the State at over one third the amount named, and many good judges place it at even less than 1 000,000 bushels, and there is, in all probability not over 1,500,000 bushels altogether of a surplus now in Oregon one half of which is already in the hands of millers and shippers and is not for sale It is expected that before harvest we will have sufficient tonnage here to carry this surplus away, but not much more When these vessels arrive the Bulletin will use the same article against holders of wheat which it has just sought to use to make favor with them It will then say "we told you some time ago that there are 3 000,000 bushels of wheat in Oregon and here are only enough vessels to carry away half of it So you must sell quick or you can only sell half, for there will be no tonnage for the remainder" But all such dodges will be detected and your efforts to play the grangers will only result in the loss of your standing with both buyers and producers and you will suffer simply because you [illegible] to tell the truth to either

The organ down the street wants the police to keep away from the vicinity of its office, and we are not [illegible] as no counterfeiting band or set of pilferers like to see officers of the law about their dens. By the way what a pitiable sight did the captain of Boone's toe mud rangers [illegible] the other morning when a policeman came upon him suddenly and found him on his knees in front of a door on First street, trying to get at an OREGONIAN that had been put under the door by one of our carriers

The man who grinds the organ down the street has ground out four or five letters commending his own course and dated them at as many places in the State. That's easy Mr Organ Grinder, but, like putting false dates to the stolen dispatches which are published in the edition of your paper which you send to your country subscribers, it won't win in the long run

The Bulletin in order to make the couplet

He that fights and runs away
Will live to fight another day

suit the state of affairs last Saturday will have to change it to something like the following

He whom we said had run away,
[illegible] us out to-day

But one paper in Oregon of above a dozen that we have received, is so low down in honorable journalism as to commend the Bulletin in its disreputable method of obtaining the dispatches which it will not pay for That paper is the insignificant tender at Salem

Wonder how 'Captain Daly feels after that dirt, etc was thrown on him while he was secreted in a dry goods box a few mornings since? Guess it isn't pleasant work to lay in wait for an OREGONIAN

The OREGONIAN was considered worthless by the Bulletin some time ago but now they consider it valuable and offer five and ten dollars for a copy and if that don't purchase one stealing one is next in order

Buy beg or steal an OREGONIAN is the order given to the emissaries of that moral journal the Bulletin. As the former did not work in many instances the latter was adopted

The Sentinel says 'Nick Ficklin, the irrepressible mail carrier between La Grande and Union don't know exactly how cold it has been out in the valley this winter but the end of his nose is a living witness to the fact that it has been colder than that corporeal organ was able to endure without getting nipped

Dick Rush has received the requisition of the Governor of Nevada for the two men suspected of the Nevada stage robbery now in jail at Eugene and is now waiting to hear from the photographs of the men sent there by him for purposes of identification Should all be right he will start overland with his prisoners within a few days

On Saturday last, says the Benton Democrat, an Indian squaw, name unknown whose wigwam was situated amid the snow clad hills of the Coast Range, near Alsea valley, becoming weary of a miserable existence in this mundane sphere, took the halter from her liege lord's cayuse and fastening one end of it to a tree and the other around her neck swung herself into the happy hunting grounds

Delegates attending the sessions of the Oregon State Temperance Alliance to be held in Salem on the 27th day of February 1875 will be granted half fare tickets for the round trip on all the steamboat lines on the Wallamet and Columbia rivers and also on the railroad lines by presenting their credentials at the office where they purchase their tickets Every delegate should be very careful to secure his credentials otherwise he will have to pay full fare

A Lane county farmer writing to the Guard thinks a canal from Albany to the McKenzie river and running along near the foothills through the east side of Lane and Linn counties would be a grand and profitable enterprise, draining thousands of acres of land and irrigating other thousands when needed giving water power and means of communication that would in due time pay a thousand times the cost of construction, and that another much needed and profitable canal might be made by tapping the Wallamet river above Eugene City and running along the course of the 'big swale' south of town and down that swale by way of the lake thence to Long Tom—down Long Tom to near Monroe thence through the prairie or by way of Muddy Creek and Mary's river to Corvallis and thence to Albany

A letter of recent date from Fort Lapwai says 'There is two feet of snow at Fort Lapwai with the thermometer at 30° below zero and while inspecting the soldiers detailed for guard on the morning of the 19th inst, Lieutenant Fletcher froze the fingers of both of his hands, while some of the soldiers had their nose, ears and toes frozen and on the night of the same day the men's quarters of the cavalry company came near being burned down but the fire was discovered just in time to prevent a conflagration The severity of the season will cause a great loss among all kinds of stock

Mr Oregon Dunbar writes from Yakima City under date of Jan 20th and the Courier publishes the following from his letter 'No snow had fallen to stay on any time until the 4th of January when it fell about 4 inches deep It afterward fell about 8 inches deep near Yakima City In Kittitas it was 30 inches all over the valley and deeper on the hills. In Klickitat about the same It was thought to be pretty cold when the mercury fell to 18 and 20 below zero, where it stood three or four days but when it dropped down the next day to 30 , the next to 35°, and the next so low that the mercury froze all agreed that it was cold A great many cattle were freezing to death all over the country Eight froze in one corral the coldest night About noon January 30th the mercury was standing at 29 degrees below A great deal of stock will die if the weather don't soon moderate Reports from all over the eastern part of the territory are about the same and judging from indications here we may expect to hear of numerous losses among sheep and cattle and perhaps horses

MONTHLY SABBATH SCHOOL CONCERT—The monthly Sabbath school concert of the Taylor street M. E. Sabbath school, took place yesterday afternoon, in the capacious and comfortable audience room of that church The exercises were unusually interesting in fact we heard several remark that it was one of the most successful affairs of the kind ever given by the school The programme was quite lengthy and our time and space will not admit of a notice of each exercise Suffice it to say there were no failures and we remember as we write especially a duet— Rowing —that was very excellently rendered and was well received also a solo and chorus by the small children called, "Have Courage my Boy to say No " also a piece in which a large number of scholars took part entitled Love One Another both of which were well rendered and created quite a sensation There was also a song by two little boys and a little girl entitled, " The Little Brown Church," which was rendered in a way that claimed the admiration of the entire audience. One of the most effective and profitable exercises was a reading by Mrs F P Church, in a clear distinct manner, and with much feeling a selection entitled What a child thought about a Star " S C Simpson Esq , delivered a short address, full of practical thoughts and well adapted to the occasion The regular exercises closed with a quartette by the choir, that was rendered in a truly artistic manner Notwithstanding the exercises were held in the large room, a number had to stand up being unable to find seats

The injured man was conveyed to his rooms and Dr Rafferty summoned, who adjusted in short order the ends of the fractured bone. When last heard from Mr Clark was resting quite comfortably We learn that this makes the sixth time Clark has had his leg broken, which makes the accident all the more unfortunate

ATTEMPTED INCENDIARISM—An unsuccessful attempt was made to burn the residence of Dr A. P. Kinney, at the corner of Washington and Seventh streets on Friday night Dr Kinney and wife were not at home at the time being called to Salem to attend at the bedside of Mr R C Kinney The incendiary succeeded in breaking [illegible] of an outside shutter, and then [illegible] a quantity of straw down [illegible] the sash and glass and ignited it This was about 8 o'clock in the evening and the neighbors had not retired to bed [illegible] a blaze, some [illegible] ran to the window, threw open the shutter and put out the fire [illegible] was done. Meantime the incendiary had made good his escape in the [illegible]

PORTLAND LIBRARY ASSOCIATION.

ANNUAL MEETING

The regular annual meeting of the members of the Library Association of Portland was held in the Library on Saturday evening when the President s report was read and other business of the Association transacted

PRESIDENT S REPORT

To the Members of the Library Association of Portland: In pursuance of Section 8 of Article III of the constitution I hereby present you the report of the President of the Association for the year 1874

The Library in common with all institutions which depend upon the voluntary patronage of the public, has felt the effect of the dullness of the times and the scarcity of money during the past year

Under these circumstances it speaks well for the Library and the community that the gross receipts of 1874 exceed those of 1873 by the sum of $70 82, notwithstanding the receipt of $190 from the city during the latter year against only $30 for 1874 while the expenditures for the same period are less than those of 1873 by the sum of $1 054 52

As will be seen from the following statements, the larger expenditure of 1873 was almost wholly due to the purchase of books —which were of a special and extraordinary character—while the larger receipts of 1874 arose from the increase of yearly dues

Receipts and Expenditures for 1874

The receipts of the Association for the year 1874 were as follows

quarterly dues	2,841 00

Library Home Fund.

By the President s report made at the annual meeting of the Association in February 1873 it appears that Mr Ladd proposed to give the Association a second three years' lease of the present library rooms to commence on March 1 1872 provided the public would contribute the sum of $6 000 to the Association within that period The Association not only undertook to comply with the proposition but to raise $10 000 to be applied by the Directors exclusively in furnishing the Library a Home

At the request of the directors I undertook to secure this subscription payable on condition that the full amount should be subscribed by December 31 1873 I was only able to raise $8 500 within the time, whereupon a new subscription was started for $9 000 payable on May 1 1874 provided the full amount was subscribed by that time

By the time proposed subscriptions were obtained from the citizens of Portland for the sum of $9 485 of which at least $9,000 was deemed collectible In addition to this amount I afterwards obtained a donation to the fund of $250 from Hon O C Pratt, of San Francisco whose generosity in this respect I think worthy of special mention and commendation It is hardly necessary to mention the fact that owing to the stringency of the times it has been much more difficult to collect these subscriptions than was expected But I am happy to state that at this date there is collected and deposited with Messrs Ladd & Tilton the sum of $9 215 A list of the subscribers who have paid with the amounts is hereto annexed I would recommend that it be entered in the minutes as a part of the report so that the memory of their good deeds may be preserved to future generations

Stock or Assets of the Association.

The stock or assets of the Association consist of

Furniture costing	$1 827 20
Books costing	10,601 54
	$12,428 74
For present value deduct	4 142 91
		$8 [illegible]
Cash in home fund		9 215 00
		$17 [illegible] 82
Deduct liabilities		650 00
Total net assets		$16 8[illegible]0 82

Membership and use of Books.

The average number of quarterly members during the year as shown by the amount of dues received is 237 In 1873 the number was a fraction less The yearly members for 1874 numbered 23 while in 1873 there were only 10 The life memberships are still limited to one

For the details of the working of the Library I refer you to the Librarian s report From it you will see that the number of volumes loaned in 1874 exceeds that in 1873 by 257 Besides the volumes loaned the department of the Library consisting of dictionaries and other works of reference, not allowed to be taken out is much used by the patrons and visitors of the Library No actual statistics are kept under this head but my observation leads me to conclude that more use has been made of the library in this respect during the past year than any prior one

INCORPORATING THE ASSOCIATION

Article 9 of the constitution contemplates that the association shall become incorporated as soon as a law shall be passed, allowing a corporation to be formed embracing substantially the provisions of this constitution The act since passed for the incorporation of literary and other societies being part of chapter 3 of the miscellaneous laws of Oregon, provides for the incorporation contemplated by this article of the constitution Under the act it will be necessary for the directors to execute proper articles of incorporation and file the same with the Secretary of State, or the county clerk But the constitution contemplates that the expediency of becoming incorporated shall be first considered or passed upon by the members of the association

The time for calling a special meeting for that purpose as specified in article 9 has long since passed but I apprehend there is no difficulty in having the matter considered at a regular meeting of the association, at which according to section I of article 4 "such business as may be presented may be transacted I therefore recommend that you pass a resolution at this meeting authorizing the directors to become incorporated under the act above mentioned by the name of The Directors of the Library Association of Portland or such other name as you may think proper For the security and certainty of the ownership of the property and funds of the association it is desirable that it should become a body corporate at as early a day as practicable

GENERAL CONDITION AND FUTURE SUPPORT OF THE ASSOCIATION

From this brief statement of the general doings and conditions of the association you will see that we are still making headway—at least keeping up with the growth of the city and the progress of the times All well informed persons will admit that this library is one of the principal features of Portland and that it has done this people much good To the careful observer its good effects are everywhere visible among us and its existence is an honor to the city It has been characterized by a gentleman of taste and culture from the East in a public address as being one of the best selected public libraries in the United States and the one thing of which Portland should be proud

Yet it has never received the attention and aid from many of our wealthy citizens that it is entitled to at their hands So far as they are concerned it has been left to struggle through ten years of existence, depending solely upon dues for its support and the care and labor of comparatively a few persons for its direction and management Indeed but for the generosity of one of our own members who has furnished us these elegant and commodious rooms without charge for six years it is doubtful if we could have maintained our existence After great exertion during the past three years the sum of about $9 000 has been contributed by the public for the purpose of furnishing the Library a home while it should have been an easy task to have raised $20 000 for such purpose in the same time Many persons who are blessed with abundance and are every way interested in what concerns the welfare of Portland have refused to contribute to this sum It is to be hoped that they will yet see this object and their duty towards it in its true light and help to raise this fund to $20 000 in the next three years

During the latter part of the last year the Directors changed the mode of paying dues so as to permit persons to pay by the month or quarter as was most convenient for them It was thought that by this means that many persons would avail themselves of the benefits of the library and contribute to its support who otherwise might not be able to So far the experiment seems to work well

The Directors have also considered the propriety of reducing the quarterly dues but have not been able to satisfy themselves that it could be done without loss to the revenue of the association which it could not afford What we need is some permanent and reliable source of revenue outside of current dues which will enable the association to admit members at fifty cents a month Probably this would bring the Library within the reach of all who could be induced to avail themselves of its privileges upon any terms In some cities there is provision by law for aiding and supporting public libraries by local taxation

It might be well to ask the next legislature to authorize this city to levy a ¼ of a mill tax annually for the benefit of this Library This would give us an additional income of not less than $2000 a year, which would probably enable us to put the monthly dues at fifty cents and pay rent for our rooms until the home fund is large enough to provide the association with rooms by that means I make the suggestion and hope it will be considered by you and the public between now and the meeting of the next legislature One word of warning in this connection It may be proposed to grant this aid upon the condition that the control of the Library is given over to the city I think, on the whole this would be a misfortune rather than a benefit In the end it would put the Library up to be scrambled for as so much political patronage. I would not accept a cent of public aid upon any such terms As organized at present, the Library has an excellent scheme of government and one which is calculated to make the Library a means of elevating and advancing the standard of public taste and culture rather than lowering it

Mr Oxer is still retained by the Directors as Recording Secretary and Librarian, and I cannot close this report without commending him for the exemplary manner in which he has discharged the duties of his position

All of which is respectfully submitted

A Prevalent Disease.

There is no disease so prevalent in America as dyspepsia and certainly none which has so generally baffled and defeated the skill of the medical profession The only remedy for this distressing complaint is a pure medicated stimulant. Hostetter s Stomach Bitters whose essential principle is sour Ti ve is admitted by medical practitioners to be the only alterative corrective and restorative on which they can rely The Bitters are the best possible specific for flatulency dizziness water brash irregularity of the bowels, and all indications of confirmed dyspepsia They do not excite but soothe the irritated stomach and bowels and may be taken by persons of the most delicate and sensitive organization who are unpleasantly affected by the use of the ordinary stimulants of commerce Their effect is most decisive yet they are so mild and beneficent in operation as to be suitable to children as well as to adults

ANN'S ANSWER

Said the teacher to Ann "I wish if you can,
You would give a more definite answer"
And Ann at once said with a toss of her head
"I do just the best that I can sir
But why should I try (do please tell me why
I think it's no use—not a particle)
For I hear every day the grammar-class say

A BRAVE SERVANT GIRL

Some years since two wealthy bachelors lived in the vicinity of Paris They had a young maid of all work named Marie De La Font. Marie was a sweet pretty girl, and lively and piquant in her manner although modest in the extreme and that was the reason that the two brothers kept her in their employ They knew that she was frugal economical and dressed in the most moderate manner imaginable One day Marie surprised her employers by informing them that a young artisan residing in Paris had asked her hand They strove to dissuade her from accepting the offer of marriage but she told them that she could not be happy unless she became the wife of her dear Henri so it was arranged that she should quit the service of the two brothers at the end of the coming month

One day during the interval the two brothers sold some valuable estate which they owned jointly, and the [illegible] to 100 000 francs It was all in bills on the Bank of France and was paid too late for deposit the same afternoon Night came, and as the old bachelors seldom had such a large amount in the [illegible] con cerned lest robbers should attempt to rob them Their fears were strengthened by the numerous burglaries that had [illegible] ly taken place in the vicinity The residence of the old men was some distance from the main road, and [illegible] near the river Seine It was a lonely, gloomy location, and on the [illegible] in question the [illegible] through the tall larches [illegible] the [illegible] with doleful and moaning [illegible]ance.

About midnight the old men retired, but scarcely had [illegible] fallen asleep when Marie rapped at their door, and informed them that robbers were at work below Both the bachelors were terribly frightened, and while one commenced to bar the door, the other began removing a tile from the hearth to hide the bills

"You have a [illegible]," said Marie "take it and shoot the villains"

But the [illegible] paid no attention to her advice.

"Cowards!" said the brave girl scornfully, "I wish that I [illegible] a man for five minutes."

Just [illegible] there a heavy crash from the apartment below The brothers crept beneath the bed, where they shivered and cringed unable to speak from terror

"We shall be all murdered in our beds," said [illegible] "We will be found by the police in the morning with our throats cut from ear to ear [illegible] fools give me the gun" She seized the double-barreled gun that lay upon the shelf and started down stairs, while the two frightened men watched her without saying a word Presently bang! went the gun and a groan was heard Bang! went the second barrel, and a [illegible] of pain resounded thro[illegible] that caused the blood of the brothers to run cold. A brief pause ensued, and [illegible] tripping up stairs, but her face wore a determined satisfied look She asked for powder and ball to reload which were furnished, but before she finished loading footsteps were heard retreating from the house.

No one slept in the house that night nor were they again [illegible] But at early dawn on going down stairs, a pool of blood on the hall floor showed that one robber at least had been [illegible], if not mortally wounded And it was plain to see by the bloody path in the earth that the victim had been dragged to the river. [illegible] the [illegible] [illegible], and the police were at once put on the alert for the arrest of the [illegible] and the recovery of the body of the [illegible] one. But all efforts proved [illegible], and the [illegible] of the young girl was [illegible] far and near The grateful bachelors were so overpowered that they offered to give Marie a dower

"Ah! monsieur," replied she, [illegible], "how can I [illegible]? You may [illegible] be attacked by [illegible]"

"But we will not, nevertheless, stand between you and happiness," they replied "Here are 30,000 francs you have saved our lives and [illegible] the money If you choose to live in this house with your husband, we will repair the lower part for that purpose, and you can also be hired to keep our room neat as at present."

Heart [illegible] Marie, and then accepted the dower and the house. Years [illegible], and recently the real facts of this midnight robbery came to light. Both of the old bachelors were dead, and had willed Marie another 30,000 francs The brave girl did not refuse it It turned out, however, that the robbers were not plural Henri acted as the burglar the blood was from a lamb killed for the purpose and the whole was but a ruse of the two lovers to open the hearts and purses of two old misers —Detroit Evening News

A LOVER'S ATTEMPTED VENGEANCE —Some five or six years ago a young man named Charles Perrin, twenty-three years old and a carpenter by trade, fell in love with a good looking girl, whose parents live in Orchard street Charles has red hair and a freckled face, and although the young lady treated him courteously when he called at the house, she had her mind made up that she could never wed a red headed man. After an acquaintance of three weeks he asked her to become Mrs Perrin, and was gently taken down when she [illegible] couldn't think of such things. Charles then sought to have the old folks put in a good word for him, but they [illegible] to interfere He continued his [illegible] perhaps hoping to soften the girl's heart, but Thursday evening the crisis came. He went to the house with a bottle [illegible] pocket, prepared to spoil her beauty if she did not give him a favorable answer There was no one at home but the girl and her mother, and Perrin [illegible] wanted the girl to take a walk with him. She [illegible] to go, and he asked to see her alone. She also refused this request, and the lover had just got ready to draw the bottle from his pocket when something bit him He thought it was a dog, but it wasn't. The cork had worked out of the bottle, and his coat-tails were turning black [illegible] at the rate of a yard a minute The acid wasn't content with the coat tails, but struck out for flesh and in about a minute the young man was dancing about the house as if to escape a bullet. Shouting and whooping he got out of doors and threw off most of his clothing, and rolled in the mud, and it was some time before any one could find out whether he had snakes in his boots or had sat down on a brad awl! He was so badly burned that two men had to help him to his [illegible], on Fifth street where a physician dressed his burns There was a good deal of laughing at his expense and if he makes his appearance at the house again he will be arrested as he told some of his friends in advance that he meant the acid for the girl.—Detroit Free Press
